The minutes of February 12 were read and approved.

Upon recommendation of the College of Arts and Sciences, the following new courses and changes in courses were approved:

The present course in Art 115a-f (Independent Work) to be broken down into three categories corresponding more closely to the various types of work now being scheduled under this one number - the new courses to be numbered and titled as follows:

Art 117 a-f. Independent Work: Painting: Print Making. 4 quarter hours. Individual research and experimental work in technical and theoretical problems of drawing and painting, print making, etc. Each quarter's work is subject to review by the staff. Open only to advanced students upon approval of department head.

Art 119a-f. Independent Work: Design: Construction. 4 quarter hours. Individual research and experimental work in technical and theoretical problems of design in materials, design for decoration, interior design, industrial design, commercial design, construction, color and light. Each quarter's work is subject to review by the staff. Open only to advanced students upon approval of department head.

Art 121a-f. Independent Work: History and Criticism. 4 quarter hours. Individual research, study and critical writing in the history and criticism of art. Studies in collaboration with other humanistic disciplines. Each quarter's work is subject to review by the staff. Open only to advanced students upon approval of department head.

Art 65c. Painting. 4 quarter hours. Continuation of 65b. This is to expand Art 65a-b from a two-quarter course to a three-quarter course (Art 65a,b,c).

Geology 126a,b,c. Seminar. 1 quarter hour per quarter. To replace Geology 126, Seminar, 1 quarter hour. (A correction of former recommendation).

Chemistry 121, Semimicro Quantitative Analysis. To be recorded as four quarter hours instead of three quarter hours. (This is a new course which was approved last year by the Faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences along with other courses in the re-organized chemistry program. The course is described as including one hour of lecture and nine hours of laboratory work per week which

Assistant Dean Terrell presented the following request from the College of Engineering:

"When the new curricula for the College of Engineering were adopted on January 8, 1945, we overlooked dropping Applied Mechanics 104 with no substitutions and we also failed to fix a date for the new curricula to become effective.

"We are now asking that the College of Engineering be allowed to keep such old courses open as may be found necessary, until September, 1945, that the new curricula be considered as in full force and effect as of September, 1945, and that Applied Mechanics 104 be dropped."

The University Faculty approved the request of the College of Engineering.

Dean Boyd, Chairman of the Committee on Honors Day Convocation, presented a request from the committee that the Faculty amend its action of August 21, 1944, by striking out the two last sentences which read: "The printed program would include the names of the students honored and the names of students attaining a cumulative standing of 2.3 or more. This convocation would be scheduled for two class periods so that neither the recognition or the address need be rushed, "and by substituting the sentence, "The other details of the program are to be determined by a committee to be appointed by the President of the University." The Faculty approved the request of the Committee.

President Donovan announced that he had appointed a committee, consisting of C. C. Ross, M. E. Ligon, and Lyman Ginger, to prepare a resolution on the death of Dr. Jesse Adams.

President Donovan stated that he thought it desirable for the University Faculty to devote a part of the meeting time to discussion of questions relating to the welfare of the University rather than to spend the entire time on routine matters. He urged the members of the Faculty to present any problems that they would like to have discussed.

President Donovan announced that at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees architects were employed to draw up plans for the new buildings which are to be started as soon as materials are available. These include an auditorium and field house, a dormitory for men, and a residence hall and dining facilities for women.

President Donovan mentioned briefly his work as a member of the committee which is making a survey of the University of Texas and stated that he would make another report to the Faculty following the release of the committee's report to the public.
