

Bond Issue Authorizes Sorority Row Buildings

The State Property and Buildings Commission has authorized the University of Kentucky to issue a maximum of $800,000 in revenue bonds to finance the construction of six sorority houses and $135,000 in such bonds to build a fraternity house.

The Commission also approved the awarding of a $999,600 contract for the construction of Holmes Hall, a women's dormitory, at the corner of Limestone and the Avenue of Champions. Federal aid had already been obtained totaling $1,131,000 to finance the building. Six sororities purchased the land on Columbia Ave. and deeded it to the University for a Sorority Row. The Purchase was made last October.

The University will build the houses and the sororities will repay the cost over a period of 40 years.

The method of financing is the same as was used to build six other structures, four fraternity houses and two houses for University athletes.

The site is an "L" shaped tract fronting on Columbia Avenue and running east of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. The base of the "L" runs north along Boone Alley to a point near the Chi Omega house across from the Fine Arts Building. The leg of the "L" extends east from Boone Alley, parallel to Columbia.

The site cost $82,000. Sororities sharing the cost are Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Zeta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Excellent Summer School Is Expected By Dr. H. L. Donovan

Station Four
Looks of patience, disgust, interest mark the faces of students facing the registration and classification ordeal in the Coliseum. Who said, "I'm going to re-enlist!"

Enrollment Up 10 Per Cent

"An excellent summer school" highlighted by conferences and work-shops is anticipated by Dr. Herman L. Donovan, UK President, this summer.

The work-shops and conferences will last from one day to two or three weeks, he said. They will consist of lectures and roundtable discussions under the direction of outstanding leaders in special fields.

Dr. Robert L. Mills, registrar, is expecting an enrollment of approximately 3300 students by the end of the term. This is an increase of about 10 per cent over last summer's enrollment of 2910.

The 3300 students include those who will attend the short courses offered during the session. Registration for these courses will continue throughout the summer.

Mills said that classification tests and physical examinations were given to 125 new freshmen and transfer students Monday. A large number of transient students, new graduate students and teachers have enrolled also, he said.

Mills said that in addition to the regularly accredited courses offered by the University, non-credit courses have also been included. These courses are designed to prepare high school graduates for college work by filling deficiencies in their high school curricula.

Among the subjects covered by the short courses are education, music, agriculture, physical education and sociology. Courses are offered in administration of schools, vocational education, costume design and industrial education.

A wide variety of special events have also been scheduled for this summer. The program includes concerts, lectures, YM-YWCA forums and the Summer Opera. Movies will be shown every Tuesday night in the Amphitheater and an outdoor folk dance will be held Thursday nights behind the women's gym.

Dorms Full At Record Registration

The highest registration in women's residence halls for the past three summers is reported by the Dean of Women's office.

According to Dean Haselden "Keeneland Hall is completely filled by the students who will be attending for the regular term."

Jewell Hall is housing the women who attend the short term classes, and also a few students who were not able to enter Keeneland.

Chi Omega house is being kept open for all sorority women.

Short term classes will continue throughout the summer semester, beginning with Family Relations and Intergroup Relations meetings. Other groups who will stay in Jewell are English, Housing, Home Demonstration and Library.

Breckenridge and Kinkaid Halls are the two dorms that will be open to men students.

Law Journal Board Named

Seven UK law students have been selected to serve on the editorial board of the "Kentucky Law Journal," legal publication of the Law College. Prof. F. W. Whiteside, faculty editor for the publication has announced.

The new members of the editorial board are:

Leslie W. Morris II, Joseph E. Johnson III and James Park Jr., Lexington; John D. Miller, Stanley; Jesse S. Hogg, Cookeville, Tenn.; Henry H. Dickerson, Glasgow, and Glenn L. Green, Harlan.

Thompson To Study Libraries

Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of libraries, left Wednesday for Washington, D. C. for conferences concerning the development of the new medical library.

He will meet with officials of both the Library of Congress and the Armed Forces Medical Library. Both libraries have pledged assistance in building the University's new library from their duplicates in medicine and related fields.

Dr. Thompson will also attend the meetings of two southern library associations before returning to Lexington—the semiannual conference of the Association of Research Libraries and the American Library Association.

He is scheduled to appear as a principal speaker at a conference of the Asociacion Cubana de Bibliotecarios, the Cuban library association, on June 26 in Havana, Cuba. He will speak on the quincentennial of the completion of the Gutenberg Bible.

HAZEL SORROW

UK Coed Attends Modeling School

Miss Hazel Sorrow will leave tomorrow for Cincinnati to enroll in the Patricia Stevens School of Modeling.

Hazel attended the University last year, majoring in Radio Arts. While at the modeling school she will take the ten-month cover girl course. She will study ballet, have movies made, and take part in theatrical productions of the school.

Among the better-known graduates of the Patricia Stevens School are Kim Novak and Evelyn Keyes.

Hazel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Sorrow, 157 Phillips Dr.

KPA Host To Newsmen

Prof. Victor R. Portmann, journalism professor, attended a meeting of the National Editorial Association in Louisville June 7-9.

The Kentucky Press Association was host to the visiting newsmen. Prof. Portmann, as secretary-manager of the KPA, was co-chairman of the convention.

Members of the NEA were welcomed to Kentucky by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, publisher of the "Hickman County Gazette," and to Louisville by Mayor Andrew Broaddus of that city.

Main speaker for the three-day meeting was Henry Shapiro, the manager of the Moscow bureau of the United Press.

I. W. Cole, assistant to the director of the School of Journalism at the University of Illinois, speaking before the assembly, urged small daily papers to encourage high school students to enter the field of journalism and to work closely with schools of journalism. Prof. Portmann said.

Prof. Portmann said the "Middleboro (Ky.) Daily News" won third place for news writing and the "Central City (Ky.) Messenger" won second place in editorial writing and honorable mention in feature writing, in a contest of small dailies throughout the nation.

Playhouse Group To Act In Town

The Pioneer Playhouse will present a play every Monday night in Castlewood Park, at 8:30 p.m. Student admission to the performances, which will be held near the Castle, is 99c.

Located in Danville, the Pioneer Playhouse also presents dramas in Somerset, Natural Bridge, Frankfort, Cumberland Falls, and Lexington.

Two companies alternate, so that one is on the road and the other playing in Danville, each week.

The program for June and July includes: "The Tender Trap," June 18; "Champagne Complex," June 18; "Dial M For Murder," July 2; "Claudia," July 9; "Wedding Breakfast," July 15, and "Yes, My Darling Daughter," July 23.

Med School At UK A 'Reality'

Establishment of a University of Kentucky medical center is "soon becoming" a reality, J. Stephen Watkins, president of the Kentucky Medical Foundation, said at a recent meeting of the foundation board of directors.

Now it is necessary to sell the skeptics of the medical profession on the idea, he said.

The Foundation is going to make the UK school and the University of Louisville help each other, the KMF president said.

Watkins listed three ways in which the foundation might help the UK medical school. He said the foundation might:

1. Seek grants from private foundations.
2. Recruit outstanding students for enrollment.
3. Raise scholarship funds, if necessary.

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, UK President, also spoke to the directors. He said that the University was ready to begin the school when it gained enough support.

Donovan said that the University has been under pressure for several years to establish the school.

He said, "I asked the board of trustees to establish legally a school of medicine, which they did, to answer the question that the University of Kentucky felt it didn't want a medical school."

Donovan explained that the center will include medicine, dentistry, and nursing.

He stated that it will be seven or eight years before the project will be "fully completed."

Plans call for the first class to enroll in the fall of 1959. The center will cost an estimated $20,000,000.

Preliminary drawings of the UK Medical School will be completed by October, Frank D. Peterson, UK business vice-president, has announced.

Present plans call for the school to be housed under one roof in a six or seven story building. A power plant for the school and a hospital will also be built.

The bill establishing the Medical School was passed by the State Legislature earlier this year. The University hopes to begin construction next year.

The buildings will be constructed on a 39 acre site on the Agricultural Experiment Farm just south of the Animal Pathology Building, bordering on Rose Street.

Firemen Learn At UK Meet

The annual Kentucky Fire School ended yesterday after three days of "Learn By Doing" group meetings and addresses on the University campus.

Dr. Elvis J. Stahr, provost and dean of the College of Law, was the principal speaker.

Group meetings were held Tuesday afternoon on these subjects: pumps and hydraulics; hose, ladders and rescue; fire prevention; flammable liquids and bases, and fire department administration.

Miss Amalia Miller of the public relations division of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., Chicago, addressed a general session Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting closed with an address by Prof. C. V. Youmans, instructor in industrial education.

The program is sponsored by the University of Kentucky in cooperation with the state fire marshal, Kentucky Inspection Bureau, Division of Vocational Education, Kentucky Industrial Fire Protection Council, Kentucky Firemen's Association, Kentucky Municipal League and the Lexington Fire Department.

King Library Exhibits Bookbinding Processes

The Margaret I. King Library is showing an exhibit of bookbinding processes, in the second floor lobby. It will be continued through June.

Planned to show step by step the way books are bound with full leather binding (with laced in boards) and case binding, it also portrays variations in the technique.

Leather and case bindings are the two principal ways of backing a book. Any other type of binding is based on one of these methods.

The full leather binding is built up progressively on the book. All of the seven stages are shown by examples in the exhibit. These include the sewing on of raised cords; the rounding and backing; the lacing of the boards; the headbanding; the covering with leather, and finally the finished volume.

A simpler and more commonly seen type, the case binding, is illustrated in four stages. In this method, the book and the case are prepared for binding separately; the final step consists in pasting the end sheets of the book to the inside of the case.

Twenty-two detailed action photographs, showing the actual work in progress, supplement the exhibit. The characteristic tools of the craft which include a backing hammer, bone folders, dividers, a type pallet, and brass finishing tools, are on display. There are also several samples of hand decorated papers, bookbinding leathers, and gold leaf. The exhibit has been collected by the Guild of Book Workers. This is a national organization of workers in the several hand book crafts and those who love books which was founded in 1906.

New Awards Governed By University

Miss Eve Barrett, a UK graduate (August, '53), has recently returned from a tour of Asian and European countries. While she was visiting Oxford University in England she saw the following notice on a bulletin board:

"The head gardener particularly requests gentlemen to avoid damaging young plants and shoots in Merton Garden. Several young shoots have been damaged by gentlemen lying on the bank near the lime-trees. As there are many June flowering shoots coming on there, gentlemen are asked to cooperate by taking their leisure on the lawn rather than on the bank-side."

of speech and the logic contained in the speech.

Although exact plans for the selection of candidates for the scholarship have not been formulated, Prof. Clifton said it is expected candidates will be selected on the basis of a state-wide speech contest.

There is to be one high school candidate selected from each state. Prof. Clifton said the scholarship will be "one of the more lucrative and extensive" of any scholarship in the nation.

Ex officio members on the national scholarship committee include the President of the United States, the vice president, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Junior High Pupils Are Taught Latin

Latin classes for children are being offered by the Ancient Languages Department for the ninth successive year.

Prof. Austin Lashbrook, from the University of Tennessee, is teaching the annual demonstration class in beginning Latin. This is designed for the seventh through ninth grade students.

A class teaching Latin to children in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades is being offered for the first time.

The demonstration class for grade school children allows graduate students to see how instruction is given by the aural-objective approach.

Called "a modified direct method," this is one in which the teacher and pupils talk about objects and activities. After speaking the foreign words for some time, the students begin reading. The method is thought to facilitate learning by imitation, and so avoid the mispronunciation of words.

Prof. Lashbrook is to teach all courses that are normally carried by Dr. Skiles, while the latter is in Israel.

Miss Molly Myles, an instructor from University High, will teach Latin to the lower classes. Miss Myles hopes to receive her master's degree in ancient Languages from the University this August.

The text for both classes is "The Living Language," which was prepared by a member of the department, Dr. W. L. Carr.

Professor Will Leave For Study

Dr. A. W. Goodman, professor of mathematics, has been granted a sabbatical leave for the 1956-57 academic year to accept a research supplement at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J.

During his stay at Princeton, Dr. Goodman will do research in "The Theory of Univalent and Multi-valent Functions," a subject in which he is recognized as one of the nation's leading experts.

He will also study the related fields of conformal mapping and the topology of Riemann Surfaces.

The Institute for Advanced Study is directed by Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, the well-known physicist. It is generally regarded by mathematicians as the center of mathematical activity, and only those who have done original research of high quality are invited to attend.

Dr. Goodman joined the UK faculty in 1949 as an associate professor of mathematics. In addition to his regular teaching duties he has been active as a reviewer for the "Mathematical Review" and as secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Section of the Mathematical Association of America.

Welch Receives USDA Award

Earl G. Welch, UK agricultural extension engineer, received the Superior Service Award from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, June 5.

Welch was one of 22 federal, state, and county extension workers to receive the honor.

The citation presented to Welch reads, "For leadership in developing needed agricultural engineering practices for the State of Kentucky, and in getting these practices accepted and applied by the farmers of the state."

Among the practices promoted by Welch are, drainage of wet land, erosion control, proper land use, 4-H water management contest, farm terracing, electric cooperatives, farm-building-plans service, safe water sources, and installation of irrigation systems.

Cars Must Be Registered Or Fines Will Be Doubled

Parking rules and motor vehicle registration for students attending the summer term are the same as those for students at any other term, Miss Joan Moffett, Student Government Association secretary, said.

All students operating automobiles are required to have them registered. If a student who has not registered his car with the SGA is given a parking ticket, the fine is automatically doubled, Miss Moffett said.

Parking areas on the campus proper are reserved for faculty members and disabled students, Miss Moffett said. However, she added, students may use the Scott Street parking lots and the one near the men's dormitories for the summer session, by paying a fee of $2.50.

Special Events Announced For Summer Term

A wide variety of social and cultural events for the summer have been announced by the Student Union Social Director, Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise.

The Summer Cinema is featuring three Cinemascope movies for the first time. The first, "Three Coins in the Fountain" was shown last Tuesday. "The Robe" will be presented June 26 and "River of No Return" is scheduled for July 10. There will be one movie a week through July 24.

Beginning Tuesday, June 19, the YM-YWCA Forum is to hold periodic discussions in the Y Lounge of the Student Union Building. The main theme for the discussion is to be "Religion and the Public Schools," and the subject will be discussed from the history, legal, and the churches point of view.

Outdoor folk dances are to be held on the Intramural Field beginning at 7:30 p.m. The first dance is to be held on June 21, and there will be one a week continuing through July 26.

The UK Summer Opera is to present "The Telephone" and "The Medium" at 8 p.m. in the Guignol Theater, July 25-28. Tickets will be on sale at the Guignol box office.

On Friday, June 29, the Student Union will sponsor a tour of farms in the Lexington vicinity. Anyone wanting to take the tour should register at the information desk in the SUB before noon, June 28.

The UK Band will present a concert at the Amphitheater at 7:15 p.m., July 10, prior to the showing of the Movie "River of No Return."

Information on other special events for the Summer Term may be obtained from the Student Union social director. The Kernel will carry a "Kampus Kalender" each week listing the events scheduled for that week.

Newsmen Visit UK, Kentucky

A group of about 300 newsmen, members of the National Editorial Association, visited the UK campus last Monday, following a convention held in Louisville June 8 and 9.

The group, consisting of editors and their families throughout the United States, stopped in Frankfort June 10 to have lunch with Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The group was welcomed to the UK campus on June 11 by Dr. Niel Plummer, director of the School of Journalism. Dr. Plummer said the newsmen "got an awfully good impression of UK and the Journalism School."

He said the visitors toured the campus, visiting the Fine Arts Building, Memorial Coliseum, and the Journalism Building, and that they were "particularly impressed" with the microfilming service in operation on the campus.

While in Lexington the group was entertained at a buffet dinner, June 11, by Fred B. Wachs, general manager of the Lexington Herald-Leader Co.

Beauty Contest Open To Coeds

The contest to select the "most beautiful and brainy" college girl in the nation, the National College Queen Contest, is open to summer school college girls.

Judging is based on 50 per cent for beauty and 50 per cent for brains. Each entrant is required to submit an original essay on "What College Education Means To Me" in 250 words or less. She must also fill out a questionnaire pertaining to current events, home economics, sports, fashion and literature.

Contestants will also be judged on personal appearance, form, figure, charm and ability to appear in public.

The winner will receive a European tour; wardrobe; jewelry and special scholarships.

Summer school students are not required to be residents of the state in which they are now attending college. They must be between 17 and 24, and undergraduates at an accredited college or university.

Free entry blanks and contest information may be obtained by writing to: College Queen Contest Director, Convention Hall, Asbury Park, N.J.

Recent snapshots or photographs must accompany entry blanks. The deadline for requests for entry blanks from summer school students is midnight, July 25, 1956.

Dickey, Adams Write 2nd Book

A new book by Dr. Frank G. Dickey, dean of the College of Education, and Dr. Harold P. Adams, associate professor of education, has been released by the American Book Company of New York.

Dean Dickey said that the book, "Basic Principles of Student Teaching," was designed for students doing work in practice teaching.

He said the book is intended to help the students understand the problems involved in student teaching.

Dr. Dickey said that a representative of the American Book Company had informed him that the book has already been adopted by a number of major institutions for use next fall. The book is the second one written jointly by Dr. Dickey and Dr. Adams. Their first co-operative work, "Basic Principles of Supervision," was published by the same firm in 1953. The educators have also written extensively for educational journals and have developed bulletins for the College of Education's Bureau of School Service.

Help Wanted!

The Kernel staff would appreciate any effort on the part of the students or faculty to keep them informed about the happenings on the campus.

If you know anything occurring on the campus please call ex. 2275 or write the Kernel.

Girls 'Run' Government

A visit to Frankfort and the organization of a "House" and "Senate" today will highlight the tenth annual Girl's State session which began Tuesday on the UK campus.

Officials for four make-believe cities and two imaginary counties were elected Wednesday. State officials were to have been elected Thursday following a political rally in the Student Union Building.

Gov. A. B. Chandler will welcome the group to Frankfort today and Court of Appeals Clerk Charles K. O'Connell will administer the oath of office to the Girl's State officials.

The group will return to Lexington.
