Speaker Voices Opinion That Smaller Institutions Put Out Better Men

Dean F. Paul Anderson of the Engineering college was speaker at the engineering assembly which was held a 10 a. m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall. His subject was titled "Purposes," an Associate Press dispatch, that he would like to schedule a post season series of games with Ohio State. If U. S. wins the Big 10 conference flag and Ohio State plays through with the Big Ten pennant and is destroyer of making such arrangements, and if both conferences could work out a procedure, Kentucky and Ohio State will meet some time in the near future in a real struggle for supremacy. A statement from Dean Frank L. McVey shows that he is opposed to any such procedure because it is not the custom and it is also against the traditions of the Big Ten conference to sanction post-season games.

Rupp May Play Buckeyes In "If" Series

Coach Adolph Rupp, varsity basketball mentor at the University, today expressed the opinion, in an Associate Press dispatch, that he would like to schedule a post season series of games with Ohio State. HONORARIES' ACE GRANTS ELECTION TO FIVE SENIORS

Horace Miner With 2.9 Is Highest; H. Emmerich, Second, with 2.8

SELECTION ON BASIS OF HIGH SCHOLARSHIP Initiation Set for Exam Week Says Dr. George Brady, President

Four men and one woman student of the University were honored yesterday by election to the dean of scholastic honoraries, Phi Beta Kappa. The election was announced by Dr. W. R. Allen, secretary of the Kentucky chapter of the fraternity.

Isabel Irving, Paris, is a major in the history department. Her average standing is computed as being 2.7.

Henry Emmerich, Henderson, is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa and fraternity and is taking the majority of his work in the geology department. His average standing is 2.8.

Horace Miner, Lexington, is a member of the zoology department, he attained a standing of 2.9.

George Brady, Winchester, a member of Delta Tau Delta, has a University average of 2.7. He is a major in the history department.

The neophytes will be initiated some time in the month of February. Dr. George Brady, president of the local order. The exact date was not announced.

The local order of the fraternity is a 1903 charter of the organization which was founded at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, during the Revolutionary War. It existed for the first few years under a different name but finally emerged under its present name and sponsored high scholarship.

Date for the annual spring election of the group has not as yet been announced. Last year the organization selected new members during April. The present elections were based on the standings of the junior, sophomore, and freshmen members. The present semester standings were not included.

W.S.G.A. PROJECTS ARE DISCUSSED

Dean Bland Presenting Suggestions For Second Semester Work Among Co-Ed Students

At the last meeting of the semester of the W. S. G. A. council, held Tuesday afternoon in the Dean of Women's office, Dean Bland, at the request of the Council, presented her suggestions for definite projects which might be accomplished next semester. She emphasized the importance of developing leadership in the women college students, and asserted that the position of house president of a sorority or dormitory should be considered an honor and not a burden.

The Council held an open discussion on the details of Miss Bland's suggestions and the following resolutions were adopted: (1) That the women student body as a whole become more articulate in their opinion on current campus problems. It was suggested that W. S. G. A. might sponsor several open forums to obtain representative opinions of the women students.

(2) That the question of over-organization of campus activities be examined in an attempt to discover which ones are vital and which, if any, should be abolished.

(3) That the co-operation of town girls and alumni be procured in obeying the W. S. G. A. regulations under which the organized houses have been set up.

(4) That greater consideration be shown to the house mothers in social courtesies, asking of them the special permissions which they have been entitled to grant and in making them feel an essential part of University life.

Kidnaping Threats Cause Ideal Couple Secret Honeymoon
Evanston, Ill.—Kidnaping threats have driven Northwestern university's ideal couple "into hiding" on their honeymoon, police revealed today.

The threats were received shortly before the marriage of the former Miss Ruth Wenter and Paul S. Cummins last Saturday. Unknown to wedding guests, police guards were posted in St. Augustine Episcopal church at Wilmette during the ceremony.

The marriage of the couple had attracted considerable publicity due to the fact that the bride had been picked as Northwestern university's "most beautiful girl," and Cummins had been named the university's "ideal man."

The couple had announced they would spend their honeymoon at St. Augustine, Fla. Police said a secret change had been made due to a kidnaping threat. Their whereabouts was known only to friends.

FACULTY CLUB TO GIVE TEA
The faculty club will entertain the seniors and graduate students, graduating at mid-term, with a tea at 5 p. m. today in the faculty club room in McVey hall, following the baccalaureate services in Memorial hall. Invitations have been placed in the post office boxes.

I'll Make A Good Standing for This Semester, Maybe

Dear Father,
This is my last letter.... before exams. I meant to write before but I've been so busy studying I haven't even had time to think. I thought I'd better write to you before—well, just before, you know.

I surely have learned a lot this semester. I ought to make a good standing. I mean it won't be quite as bad as it was last semester... I am almost certain of that. Except maybe in English. See, Mr. Knight doesn't believe in the normal curve. I mean he gives more D's than C's and less A's than E's and all that. Of course I'm positive I'll get at least a C, maybe.

I feel terrible today... caught an awful cold. I've just dragged myself to classes all week, you know how I hate to cut. I did I've to cut my Saturday class yesterday to get my hair waved for the dance last night, and it almost killed me. I mean the drying machine was too hot. But I've been staying home every night lately to study, so I thought I needed a little recreation. I mean I go to the library to study every night with "Bill" and we never go to the Tavern until the library closes.

I saw a darling formal in a window down town yesterday. I went down to get some cough drops. I sure love to have it for our formal dance but I know you can't afford it so I wouldn't think of asking you for it. It's blue—your favorite color. That's why I liked it so well. I just haven't been able to think of anything except studying lately. I guess this is a pretty dull letter on account of that's all I can talk about.

Well, after all, I don't think grades matter much. It's what you really get out of your courses and I've actually learned more this semester than ever before. See that's why I think I might make a real good standing, maybe.

Your devoted daughter,
Dazie

TRAINING SCHOOL PROGRAM

A special program will be given by the elementary department of the Training School at the regular meeting of the Library staff at 2:30 p. m. today in the Training School auditorium.

Following the program at the Training School, tea will be served in the staff room of the library.

INTRAMURAL

By HENRY C. McCONN
Entries for Free Throws were closed last Saturday with 13 houses and organizations entered. Seven organizations have already tossed their 50 qualifying shots and have selected their teams. It's a little early to make any predictions in this sport of skill and accuracy, but it's certain that the individual that beats Benny Martin's record of last year will have to do some powerful shooting.

Handball is well under way and the finals should bring together some of the best handball players that the University has had in recent years. If you should happen to want to see how handball should be played, wander over to the Gym Annex some afternoon and watch Professor Randall of the Law College take on all comers. It's a good thing he isn't eligible for the tournament or there wouldn't be much use having a tournament if he were entered.

It was announced earlier in the semester that bowling would be omitted from this year's intramural program because of the unfair prices offered by the only bowling alleys in town, but Hack has been able to get special rates for those entered in the tournament and bowling is to be the next sport offered by the intramural department.

BOWLING

1. Entries for bowling will close at 6 p. m. January 27.
2. Entry fee shall be $1.25 for each five-man team.

3. The tournament will begin January 30 and will last until the last week in February. Each team will bowl one night a week for four weeks.

4. The high total for the four weeks will win.

5. Reward will be given to the individual high scorer for the four weeks.

6. The place shall be Ammerman's alleys on north Limestone. His rates are within reason now.

SPANISH CLUBS TO MEET

El Ateneo Castellano Spanish club of the University held its last meeting of this semester at 3 p. m. Tuesday in the Zoology lecture room. Mrs. Alberta Wilson Server, assistant professor of the Romance language department, delivered an illustrated lecture on South America. The lecture was illustrated by photographs, most of which were taken by Mrs. Server while in South America.

Debaters Decide American Frats Allow No Rest

Meeting at Univ. of Indiana Results in Selection of Ohio Indiana, Kentucky

American fraternity life is just one grand confusion after another. This opinion was expressed by James J. Auchmutz and Garnett E. Gill, the Irish debaters who debated at Emory university recently.

"Why there is no privacy at all," said Gill. "I wouldn't like to live in an American fraternity house," the speaker said. "For I am afraid I would never be able to think, and what's more I don't believe that fraternity boys get much of an opportunity to think."

Auchmutz was asked what would be his most vivid impression of America after returning to the Irish Free State. "The American people always in a hell of a hurry," he answered. "You people are always trying to rush to save a few minutes and then don't seem to know what to do with the time you have saved," he explained. Both of the debaters were tremendously impressed with the amount of money spent for education in America. "It is amazing," Auchmutz stated.

Gill offered the interesting opinion that American undergraduates were compelled to work much harder than in the other countries. In speaking of his most vivid impression Gill said, "The main thing that struck me was that undergraduate life is all organized so that a student finds himself with no leisure at all."

"Why there is no privacy at all," said Gill. "I wouldn't like to live in an American fraternity house," the speaker said. "For I am afraid I would never be able to think, and what's more I don't believe that fraternity boys get much of an opportunity to think."

THEY'RE MILD—THEY TASTE BETTER

If the regulars of last year's Tennessee basketball squad cannot make the team this year, and a new and much more clever team is on the floor for the Vols, then Kentucky has a team much improved over that of last year. Clemson, unable to score 20 points against a dozen Kentucky players, probably has as good a team as last year, but last year the score was much closer.

As to whether or not Kentucky has a team improved over last year, is a question for debate in the city, but had Kentucky stuck to southern circles, in place of barnstorming about the country, they would have won all of their games to date, and would have continued to do so. It is not the purpose or the intention of this column to criticize the schedule makers in any way. Rather, the Press Box would praise them. It is far better a thing to bring out and be known, than to continue to play the inferior teams of the South. The losses to strong, rough squads in the north are no disgrace. It is probable that Kentucky, in a return game, would handle Ohio State in the manner in which they handled Kentucky. It is also possible that Ohio State has this year (that will be determined when the champion is crowned).

Popular demand has caused collegiate sports to develop into gigantic business. Some argue that it should then be taken out of college and placed into the hands of competent managers. Others would rather keep quiet about it.

Press Box sees no reason why universities should not have football and baseball teams to represent them, see no reason why deserving boys should not receive remuneration.

At present there is a definite movement under foot to abolish the ancient and now foolish distinction between the amateur and the professional. History shows there was a social need for such a difference in medieval times. Today when all men supposedly are created equal, if one man should be endowed with mental powers and another with physical prowess, there is no reason under the sun why each man should not gain his livelihood from his gifts.

After a tedious train trip (they always are, and Ellis Johnson always gets sick) the Big Blue took Creighton into camp. They came back next day to trim the Kentucky boys by about the same score. They were the best in the nation last year, and they are still the best in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Ye man! ... be proud of what you have there in the gym!

The crescendo of vex populi demanding athletic investigation has reached the South. Headlines in Sunday's papers announced that the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools was called into the investigation.

Part of the trouble lies in the fact that some bird from Columbia desired publicity. Columbia authorities were forced to expel him from the university because of that very tendency. Out of school he exploited his ill-gained publicity by writing a book. Therein he made maintain out of the fact that a number of athletes were being paid. It is not the usual practice, but by the time will come when intercollegiate sports are either abolished or athletes are paid for the bone-crushing football seasons; the heart-breaking basketball practices, etc.

Friday, January 27: 2:30 p. m., Commencement Procession forms at the Agriculture building. 3:00 p. m., Commencement address, by Patrick Henry Callahan, Louisville. 4:30 p. m., President and Mrs. McVey's tea in honor of graduates, Maxwell place.

Seniors will be guests of honor at the Alumni dinner and may obtain their complimentary tickets from the Alumni office after Monday, January 23. Alumni and faculty are urged to obtain their tickets for the dinner and to register at the Alumni office as soon as possible.

FRESHMEN LOSE TO EASTERN 38-36

By JOE QUINN
An aggressive and husky quintet from Eastern State Teachers' college came to town Tuesday night, and downed the local Frosh outfit 38-36, although they had to stave off a last minute rally to accomplish it.

The Easterners, coached by Al Portwood, former Wildcat hunk, did not have as smooth working team as the Campbellmen but they made the most of their opportunities while the locals appeared bewildered during the early part of the contest.

Scoring in the initial half opened when Brown, huge visiting forward, counted with a short shot and a bounce, later added a second goal. Shots by Storrs and Gover then hoisted the count to 8-0 before "Shir" Jerome tossed in a shot from the side for the first Kitten score. Eastern made four more points but when Arnall replaced Edwards for Kentucky, the team showed new life and closed the ten-point gap in short order to tie the score at 12-12. However, Brown then got loose and added five points to the Eastern total to bring the count to 17-12 as the half ended.

Lewis, lanky Kitten center, pushed one in from under the hoop to open the second half scoring activities and the teams both added several points during the first ten minutes. Eastern making their points mainly by gift tries. Joe Huddleston replaced Jerome who was banished on personals and immediately hooped one to bring the score up to 22-25 with Eastern leading. Arnall scored to put the Frosh

Now that Tilson, Washington and Lee football coach, has given football back to the students, the University of Kentucky might follow suit. The wooden bleachers could be erected along the side of the practice field, scrimmages could be announced, and a general open house could be held through the week. It could scarcely detract from the practice sessions, and the crowds might inspire the team to greater effort.

"Daddy" Boles' little boy arrived too late to see first half... sat quiet through second half... but quiet for the first time in his four years... the gentlemen on the door... sound made more noise in a cheer than the whole student section did all year... (Seen on front row) Wallace Muir, Harry Ganauge, Mrs. Shively, Mrs. Gila, Doctor McVey, James Morris, Dr. and Mrs. C. Caron Jones, Morris Levine, Mrs. McKinley...

one point behind and the game became fast and furious, both teams battling to score. The first two minutes Lewis pivoted and dropped a beautiful shot and Anderson added a foul and the Kittens led Lewis was short-lived, however, when Gover, Little Maroon center, unconscious heavy from the side to knock the count and a brown later put the game on ice with a crisp as the contest ended.

Back Seat Driving Held Legitimate

In a unique decision the State Supreme court of Kansas held the "back-seat driver" was not to interfere with the front seat driver. The court added that not only had the occupant of the rear seat the right to the instructions, but that it was his, or her, duty to warn of approaching danger.

William G. Carter suffered from the decision. He was denied the right to collect damages for personal injuries from the Missouri Pacific railroad. Carter had been injured while being driven by his daughter-in-law. His suit for damages came to the Supreme court. That body held that he, as a back-seat driver, was guilty of contributory negligence and not entitled to damages.

Cream, Sugar on Your Oatmeal Fungus, Dear?

Mother may give Johnny and Mary oatmeal with cream and sugar for breakfast, or you may feed it to your dog when his ears don't seem as perky and lively as usual—but that isn't the use that Dr. A. R. Moore has for oatmeal.

Dr. Moore, professor of physiology in Corvallis, Oregon, has in his laboratory a dozen small dishes, each containing a little oatmeal. On top of the cereal he has placed a small amount of slime-mould, a yellowish green substance—no one knows whether an animal or a plant—which eats the grains out of the oatmeal.

This slime-mould is one of the queerest things known. It grows in the woods on fungus, eating them the same as it does the oatmeal. Dr. Moore obtained the slime-mould from Massachusetts, dried in an envelope. He kept it for a year in this dried form, and yet when it was placed on a dish of oatmeal, it commenced to grow, eating the grains in the cereal and moving from one side of the dish to the other.

It isn't a plant and it isn't an animal—or perhaps it is both. That is one of the things Dr. Moore is trying to discover with his experiments.

He watches over it as carefully as another feeds Johnny oatmeal, keeping it in a dark room which is separated from his regular laboratory by a winding passage, strange reminder of the "Hide in the Dark" and "Topsy Turvy" house at the fair. He says it grows better back there.

Dr. Moore has some other experiments on hand, too. He is crossing sea dollars and sea urchins—in case you aren't informed, those are some of the things you find at the beach, and he says, are biologically far apart, ions and gaffers. However, he doesn't know much about the sea animals yet, so that must be left to another time.

Headline—"Six Thousand Soles Lost in Shoe Store Fire." After all there's not much difference in material things and human beings, is there?

Typing room hum-drum—"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party." (five lines).

Infamous last words—"Goodbye, cruel world."

People at the gym during the last game couldn't figure out whether it was a basketball game or a policeman's ball!

For economy, the salute fired in honor of Kansas' new government will be from a smaller gun than usual.
